Subject: [CliSciLeaders] Delaware Judicial Conference -- Climate Presentation

Hi Friends –

I hope everyone is well. Here is a link to the video of the Climate Presentation that I put together for the Delaware Judicial Conference.

<https://youtu.be/78A9KAx4Wog>

After my brief introductions, the first speaker is Shawn Garvin, who is the head of Delaware Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control.

The second speaker is Prof. Michael Gerrard from the Sabin Center at Columbia.

This version has very minor edits... some fades in and out, name plates, logo and some sound edits for the loud clapping.

A few minor learnings that I would pass along:

- Even in solidly blue-state Delaware, I heard from some dissenting voices. With 70 judges attending, a 19% rate of Doubtful/Dismissive would mean about 13 folks. I would guess maybe half that, but still not zero.

- I think the combo of a state official and a law expert was a good one. The judges were very interested in the local impacts of climate change. Most of the questions focused on that side of things and went to Secretary Garvin.
- I did get some anecdotal requests for a follow up presentation. I haven't seen the survey feedback yet. The requests I received focused more on the science side than on the law side. I think there is real interest in understanding the science.

Because the link is of a judicial event that is otherwise not public, please do not forward or use without checking with me. I suspect that goes without saying, but the powers that be will be happier that I said it.

All the best,
