Welcome back to the National Judicial College's Judicial Leaders in Climate Science Program! We will see you in Woods Hole, Massachusetts in mid-September, with your arrival into Boston Logan Airport on Sunday, September 15. By now, most of you have arranged your travel to Boston. Alf Brandt will work with you on how to get to the Sands of Time Inn in Woods Hole, 90 minutes away, and he has arranged rooms for you.

Materials. The week before you arrive, you will receive the e-binder of materials for the program, and you are invited to print whatever materials you find particularly helpful to have in hard copy. Otherwise, we encourage you to load and bring your laptop or tablet with the materials.

Shore Dinner. We will enjoy a communal dinner at the Woods Hole Marine Biological Laboratory on Monday, September 16.

In the weeks ahead, you will hear more from Alf Brandt or Laura Ledwith. They've been copied in this message for your reference. In the meantime, if you have any questions, please email them. Thank you for participating in our climate science program.

Sincerely,

Beth Loureiro
