Hi Shannon,

Thank you for agreeing to be a presenter for the Judicial Leaders in Climate Science course at Woods Hole on September 16-18. I am the manager of the Climate Judiciary Project and will be organizing the logistics for the course in collaboration with John Doherty, who will assist with presentation content development. This is such an important program, and we are so honored to have such a great group from which the judges can learn. I have attached the current working draft agenda for your reference.

To help you and us prepare for the course, could you please let us know:

- When you plan to attend the course. You are welcome to stay for the entire program or just for the day of your presentation; and
- dietary restrictions and accessibility needs. Please plan to join us on Monday, September 16 for a Shore Dinner for all faculty and attendees. In addition, we may organize a dinner for the night of the 17th.

As for the substance of the program, these judges are engaged in a year-long course which teaches them both leadership skills and climate science and the goal is that at the end of the program, they will agree with following four statements:

- I see myself as part of, and am excited to engage with, a growing network of judicial leaders in climate science.
- I feel confident that I understand basic climate science, impacts and the law and that I have the ability to apply that knowledge to cases that involve issues of climate science.
- I feel confident that I have the leadership skills to be a resource for and provide guidance to my colleagues on issues of climate science and impacts as well as the related litigation, regardless of their perspective on the issues.
- I am committed to using my knowledge and leadership skills to educate my colleagues about basic climate science, impacts and the law so that they too are able to apply that knowledge to any climate litigation that comes before them.

With that in mind, we ask that you provide the following by August 16 or as soon thereafter as possible:

- a. 2-3 learning objectives for your session
- b. PowerPoint slides for your presentation in .ppt format. Please upload them here.
- c. A 100-word biography and headshot

In addition, to assist with developing your presentation content for our audience, John will schedule a call for some time in the next couple of weeks.

If you have any questions, please feel free to reach out any time. John and I are happy to assist and we look forward to being together in September.

Best,

Jared Mummert (he/him)
