If the 10 am MST slot is still available, let's connect so we can talk about your role/opening. That may be the best way for us to prepare some talking points for you. Here's a Zoom link for that time:

I have some time between 11-12 on Monday or between 9-12 on Wednesday.

Thanks Alf. I should be able to get through it all in 35 minutes (a lot of the slides should be less than a minute), but I'll do a run-through on my own end before hand

OMG!! This is wonderful and so helpful to what judges need. I feel heard, with all your slides on how you analyze climate and its effects. You do a great job at explaining all three parts of my request - data, analysis and scope conclusion. This gets judges comfortable with assessing how experts appearing in front of them use data and analysis. For our judges' needs in evaluating experts, this is one of the best climate presentations on process that I've seen. This is a keeper and one we will maintain in our NJC-on-Demand online catalog.

Can you do all this in 35 minutes? Do we need to think about how we might finish this presentation in the hour segment and then do some exercises with judges beyond the hour segment? Our WebEx platform allows us to do polling questions for exercises. You could ask them questions and respond when you see how they answer the questions.

Judge Valencia, let's set a time next week to work through how you want to introduce the webinar, etc. When are good days??

All I can say is THANK YOU!! You are making a great contribution to the adjudication of climate science issues, starting with water and drought.

I have a 9 mst hearing so 11 would be safer for me.
